Which car will you choose?

Whether you're after shape, speed or style, there's something to suit any driver's tastes. The only problem is how will you decide on just three?!

Ferrari 360

When Ferrari joined forces with an aluminium producer in the US to create the space frame chassis for the 360, they created a structure which was both 10% larger than its predecessor and 28% lighter. A combination of this lightweight bodywork, new styling and the revolutionary V8 engine makes the Ferrari 360 one of the most recognisable and powerful cars around. The engine itself is a work of art, featuring titanium rods and a flat plane crankshaft which contribute to give the 3.6 litre behemoth 400bhp and a top speed of over 180mph.

Audi R8

As a relative newcomer to the world of supercars, the Audi R8 certainly has no shortage of fans amongst committed petrol-heads. With the Quattro permanent all-wheel drive system, which has become associated with the manufacturer, the platform is a nod to the Lamborghini Gallardo on which it is based. However, this car is a triumph in its own right, combining the aluminium bodywork with cutting edge engine design and plenty of power underneath the beautifully designed bonnet. The top speed is 187mph and the 4.2 litre engine will produce a hum which you will never forget.

Aston Martin DB9

The DB9 is one of Aston Martin's most critically acclaimed cars, admired by enthusiasts for its classic interior styling, as well as the sleek exterior. Under the bonnet is a 6 litre V12 engine which was originally designed for the V12 Vanquish and is capable of reaching speeds in excess of 180 mph and accelerating from 0-60 in just over 4 seconds. Add to that the sheer class and style associated with Aston Martin and you have a car which is easy to fall in love with.

Aston Martin V8

The Aston Martin V8 Vantage was the manufacturer's answer to their customers' requests for an eight cylinder model, the resulting popularity made it the company's most sought after car for nearly twenty years. Tadek Marek, the engineer responsible for the V8 engine, earned his name as one of the most accomplished innovators in motoring. As they were hand-built in the traditional manner of Aston Martin, the V8 has made its way into motoring history as one of the most iconic cars of its time.

Lamborghini Gallardo

As Lamborghini's best-selling model, the Gallardo has won hearts and minds across the globe since it was first produced in 2003. Named after a breed of fighting bull, 14,022 of these incredible vehicles were built during the lifetime of the model to keep up with the demand for a car which exceeded all expectations. The V10 engine provides a distinct engine note and the characteristic body shape makes it instantly recognisable to anyone with an eye for sleek design.

Nissan GT-R

The GT-R revolutionised the way Nissan was viewed by the motoring world as it swiftly became one of the most popular cars on both the road and the track. With a twin turbo, six cylinder engine, the GT-R's four wheel drive system makes it unique amongst its counterparts in terms of its design and advanced engineering. With a top speed of more than 190 mph, the original production model recorded 0-60 times as low as 3.2 seconds, making this a car to really be reckoned with.

Porsche 997

Evolving from the previous model, the Porsche 997 offered small but significant changes to its predecessor. Many of these were cosmetic, with both the interior and exterior styling having been changed from that of the earlier models and the engine having been modified in order to make it more powerful. The 997 is the most popular Porsche 911 of all time, selling more than 100,000 in the first two years of its production and earning rave reviews from motoring journalists the world over. The sleek design and the top speeds which approach 180mph make this car one which always impresses.

Jaguar F-Type

The Jaguar F-Type is no ordinary car. For eighty years, the engineers and designers at Jaguar have refined their craft to ensure that each model delivers a memorable performance time after time. As the successor to the renowned Jaguar E-Type, the F-Type is certainly no exception. While the smooth, almost muscular, exterior is enough to make jaws drop, the interior consists of the advanced technology and luxury upholstery you'd only expect from Jaguar. Don't be fooled by this car's impeccably sleek design, however. Under the hood lies a 5 litre V8 engine which churns out a massive 500bhp, allowing the car to reach 0-60mph in just 5.1 seconds. With the ability to annihilate a top speed of 161mph, extreme speed and power blend harmoniously to create a furious, yet flawless, drive every time.

BMW i8

The BMW i8 epitomises 45 years of the remarkable BMW philosophy. With innovative electric mechanics, this supercar can reach 0-60mph in a mere 4 seconds and reach a top speed of 155mph with fascinating ease. Meanwhile, two electric motors work together to generate a magnificent 357bhp, demonstrating the power capabilities when unleashed on the track. While what's under the bonnet of the car is certainly impressive and far friendlier on the environment than your usual sports car of this calibre, it's the exterior design of this car which is truly known for turning heads. Upon entry to the vehicle, the dihedral doors glide up and outward, inspired by the elegant movement of a butterfly, and immediately set the tone for the entire experience.

TVR T350C

The outer appearance of the TVR T350C is certainly one you'll have a hard time forgetting. Although it certainly makes an impact, the remarkable design is not without purpose. With a focus on making the car as aerodynamic as possible, the bonnet exceeds the usual lengths found on supercars. A remarkable smooth slope with a dramatic finish, the front nose is virtually cartoon-like and surreal looking, but highly effective when it comes to minimal drag and maximum downforce. The performance stats certainly reflect this, with a whopping top speed of 190 mph and the ability to reach 62 mph in 4.4 seconds.

Reading about a car doesn't even come close to the reality of getting behind the wheel, so prepare to narrow down your choices in order to pick the three renowned supercars which really appeal to you.
